

R e d c H a Ca P ac W a Y N d K

Notwithstanding to whom the information is disclosed, the covered entity may not disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of marketing or for the purpose of selling the information to a third party.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

W a a d d c

PHI a b d/ d?

Prohibited Uses and Disclosures

Permitted Uses and Disclosures

The covered entity may not disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of marketing or for the purpose of selling the information to a third party.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service. (e.g., a resident travels to another state to receive lawful reproductive health care)

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service. (e.g., contraception)

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service.

The covered entity may disclose the information to a third party for the purpose of providing a service to the individual, if the disclosure is necessary for the individual to receive the service. (e.g., to a law enforcement officer)

